Subject: District Election Public Workshops

The City of King will host two public workshops to present information and answer questions regarding consideration of a change from at-large elections to district elections. The workshops will be held on February 18th at Chalone Peaks Middle School, 667 Meyer Street, and on February 22nd at the King City Arts Magnet School, 415 Pearl Street. Both workshops will begin at 6:00 p.m.

At the February 23rd meeting, the City Council will consider a request that has been submitted to change the process of how council members are elected. Currently, King City registered voters cast their ballots for all open seats. Under district elections, the City would be divided into districts and the electorate would vote for candidates running for office in their respective districts. The workshops were requested by the City Council to ensure the public understands the options, has an opportunity to have their questions answered, and to provide input that the Council may consider in making their decision.

Please contact City Hall at 385-3281 if you have any questions.
